Winter POV Readiness: It's smart, it's safe & it's the law

As cold weather settles across Germany, preparing your POV for winter driving is not only smart & safe -- and required by German law. Failing to ensure that your car is ready for winter could cost you up to 40 euros and a point on your license.

"If you can't properly drive uphill in the snow, and people have to drive around you, you're a hindrance, and you will get fined," said German police officer Sgt. 1st Class Sven Stadtrecher, liaison to the U.S. Army Garrison Heidelberg. A German traffic law in effect since Dec. 2005 mandates that vehicles must be appropriately outfitted for the weather -- which includes appropriate tires and sufficient antifreeze-treated window washer fluid.

The penalty for not being in compliance with the law is a 20 euro fine for having trouble maneuvering a vehicle, or a 40 euro fine and one traffic point if trouble maneuvering a vehicle impedes others or causes a wreck. As the law is relatively new, there will be increased checks on the road. Drivers should equip their cars with tires that are labeled with either a snowflake and/or "M+S."

For additional safety information call the USAG Stuttgart Safety Office at 421-2752/civ. 0711-729-2752.

Found:

Small black toy horse Sat, Sept 23 an American woman on train from Stuttgart with her 2 young sons let my little son play with their toy horse. She recently moved here and lives north of Herrenberg. I suddenly realized that the stop near Vaihingen was mine and ran off forgetting my son had the horse in his hand. As I remembered the train started pulling away. I am sorry and hope you can call me at 0175-672-7941 so I may return your son's knights horse.
